In Belfast, not long ago, two visitors riding on a train toward Malone road were overheard conversing about their holidays by an old delph vender, who evidently belonged to the neighborhood of Smithfield. One visitor was loud in his praises of the Isle of Man and said he enjoyed Douglas were it not for some Irish who got there occasionally. She with the chinaware could stand this kind of conversation no longer and, rising to leave the train, delivered herself in this fashion: "And so yez couldn't enjoy Douglas because of the dirty Irish! Yez should go next year for your holidays to hell; there's no dirty Irish there."

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Jeffersonville news left with Secretary Gorman will always be published.

A large number of members were initiated in Milwaukee Monday night. Division 1 of New Albany meets Thursday night. There may be several visitors from Louisville present.

President Gleason and Will Reilly will keep Jeffersonville in the lead. They are ably assisted by William Coyle.

The Irish are among the most influential citizens of San Antonio, Texas, where there are two flourishing divisions of the order.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Chelsea, Mass., will strive to make their annual ball in April the grandest social event of the season.

All indications point to a great entertainment in Jeffersonville in honor of St. Patrick. There will be a large attendance from this city and New Albany.

Division 3 acquitted itself with glory Monday night. President Cavanaugh says this week's social session is only an introduction to what will follow.

The Ladies' Auxiliaries of the Eastern cities have been giving socials and entertainments nightly since the holidays, and still there are many to occur after Lent.

The young men are in the great majority in Division No. 1 of Jeffersonville, but they wisely follow the lead of John Murphy, John Dougherty, Mike Kinney and other well known old members.

The Visitor says the St. Patrick's day parade of the order will be the most imposing ever witnessed in Providence, and the musical vespers at St. Patrick's will be very elaborate and well rendered.

Jeffersonville division had as visitors Tuesday night all the officers of the County Board and Division President Dan Walsh, of New Albany, and Division President John Cavanaugh, of Louisville.

Divisions 1, 4 and 2 meet Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the foregoing order, when matters of great importance to each must be acted upon. Therefore all members should attend.

Five divisions had meetings in Providence on Sunday afternoon and all were well attended. Division 11 had eight candidates for initiation and ten applications were received. Division 17 initiated three and received eleven applications.

Have you secured your seats for St. Patrick's night at Macaulay's? First come, first served. All have been duly notified and can offer no excuse if they fail to secure them. The choice ones may soon be all taken. The souvenir has met with great favor on all sides and hundreds of them are seen daily.

Mal Shaughnessy, of Division 4, and Miss Lida Mesgher are sure to make a hit St. Patrick's night. They will doubtless be seen by many from Limerick and the West End, and we feel safe in saying their performance will please their many friends. Cake walking of an entirely new character will be their specialty.

The coming St. Patrick's day promises to be a memorable one in the history of St. Paul. If everything turns out favorably there will be the largest Hibernian parade ever seen on the streets of that city. Many towns and cities have announced the intention of sending large delegations and thus far six bands of music have been engaged.

The Hibernians of New York have decided not to build a hall on the site it owns in Forty-fourth street, between Second and Third avenues, but to dispose of it and purchase a larger piece of land in old Yorkville or Harlem. The present site consists of two lots. It is now proposed to purchase four lots and erect a hall to cost about $75,000. The county organization recently held an election for Trustees of the building fund. Patrick J. McNulty, John L. O'Connor, Dennis J. Hamilton and Henry McGee were re-elected and Patrick J. McNulty was chosen the fifth trustee.

SORROW IN NEW ALBANY.

Miss Margaret Wall, aged twenty-one years, a young lady held in high esteem by all who knew her and popular in society circles, died Wednesday morning at the residence of her father, Thomas Wall, 1329 Dewey street, New Albany. Her funeral took place from Holy Trinity church, of which she was a devout member. Rev. Father Kelly conducting the services.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

At a meeting of the Longford County Council this week a motion to forward an expression of condolence to King Edward on the death of Queen Victoria was voted down.

John Macinery, a Dublin quay laborer, sustained injuries while assisting in the discharge of the cargo of the steamship Cambria which caused his death. He fell from the deck into the hold of the vessel.

The Limerick County Council feels confident of succeeding in its movement for the abolition of contract labor on public roads. The President of the Local Government Board stated that if the County Councils approve the plan he will ask Parliament to sanction it.

This month a representative meeting of teachers was held in Tuam, at which resolutions were unanimously adopted expressing their gratitude to Archbishop Walsh for his powerful and unflinching advocacy of the teachers' claims and acknowledging his great work for the reform of primary education in Ireland.

At the opening of the Sligo Quarter Sessions Judge O'Connor Morris was presented with a pair of white gloves, as there were no criminal cases to go before him. This fact does not bear out remarks at the Winter Assizes in reference to the "criminal" combinations that have been so widespread over the different counties in Connaught.

Widespread sympathy is felt for the popular and beloved Cistercian community of Roscrea in the recent heavy loss they sustained by the burning of their mills, and a movement is on foot to start a public fund to indemnify them. The Chairman of the Tipperary Board of Guardians, James Fitzgerald, makes an appeal which should meet with a warm response.

Dr. George Myles, of Limerick, died after a very brief illness. Monday he was stricken with an attack of acute pneumonia, and despite all that medical skill could do he succumbed that evening. He was a son of the late Alderman Zachary Myles, a prominent citizen of Limerick. Dr. Myles was sixty years of age, and is survived by a wife and six grown children.

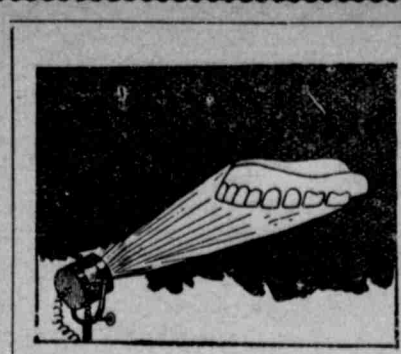

The Gaelic League has taken firm hold in Waterford, where the greatest activity now prevails. At the beginning of the year there were 184 affiliated branches, and from this and the organization now being pushed it may be fairly surmised that the next Representative Congress will witness a development of the organization highly creditable to everybody who has participated in the year's work.

The first of this month a gale of unusual severity broke over West Limerick, accompanied with unceasing torrents of rain and hail. The mail road for a considerable distance between Ballygarra and the important market town of Rathkeale was dangerously flooded, the fences and many acres of land on either side being completely submerged, and the mail car has been obliged to travel over a circuitous route in carrying the mails to both towns.

Bishop John Clancy, who contributed $50 to the testimonial for John O'Dowd, member of Parliament for South Sligo, wrote: "If all our members of Parliament were as energetic and unselfish in this work as the representative for South Sligo the voice of the country would make itself heard at home and would be respected in the English House of Commons. Alderman Foley, now Mayor of Sligo, and Patrick McHugh also made liberal subscriptions.

An accident of a serious nature and unhappily resulting in fatal consequences occurred at a place called Fenney, about six miles from Thurles. It appears a farmer named Stapleton had been visiting his sister at Borrisoleigh. Leaving for home at 9 o'clock, he was found the next morning about 200 yards from his own house, life being extinct. Deceased was driving a box cart, and the accident is attributed to the horse shying when turning a sharp angle of the road and throwing Stapleton to the ground, when the cart fell upon him. He was a married man and leaves a wife to mourn his loss.

After many vicissitudes the new church at Castlebar is at length nearing completion. The high altar has been placed in position, and the work of the splendid stained glass window surmounting it has received its finishing touches. To the splendid generosity of two distinguished ecclesiastics Father Lyons, the indefatigable pastor of Castlebar, owes these two great features of his church. The window was presented by the Archbishop of Tuam, who has been a munificent supporter of a task which in its inception and promotion required no ordinary courage and perseverance. The high altar is the gift of an eminent Mayo man, Bishop Patrick Ludden, of Syracuse. The work of the window and altar is extremely chaste and artistic. The window typifies the fifteen Mysteries of the Rosary in three tiers. The high altar is probably the largest one west of the Shannon, and is of a very decorative character. The farmer's foot is a corn field that requires neither plowing nor sowing.
